Illinois grains- Grain futures ended mixed this week, with corn and wheat lower and soybeans higher. Exports and good export interest supported gains in the soybean market. Several times during the week either the USDA or private exporters would announce a sale of US soybeans to China or an unknown destination. More announcements were expected as the Chinese delegation was touring the US. After some moderation, the hot and dry conditions in South America again seemed to lift soybean values. Good weekly export figures helped corn futures to recover on Thursday, as numbers were higher than expected at slightly over 1 million metric tonnes.

The trading of cash grain in Illinois was slow. Cash basis levels again ended the week mixed. The cash soybean basis levels inched higher for the week. Lower rates for barge freight and improvements in the gulf basis made cash soybean bids at the river terminals very competitive with the Illinois processors. The Central Illinois Soybean Processors cash bids ended 32 to 36 cents higher at 12.62-12.73, with basis 1 to 5 cents higher ranging from +4H to +15H. The Central Illinois Corn Processors cash bids were steady to 2 cents higher with bids ranging from 6.46-6.64, with basis 1 to 3 cents higher at +10H to +28H. At the Illinois River terminals south of Peoria, cash corn bids ended 1 to 3 cents lower ranging from 6.43-6.50, with basis steady to 2 cents lower at +7H to +14H. Cash soybean bids gained 39 to 40 cents at 12.66-12.70, with basis 8 to 9 cents stronger ranging from +8H to +12H. New crop corn bids for October delivery were steady to 4 cents higher to range from 5.40-5.45, with basis steady to 4 cents higher at -28Z to -23Z. New crop soybean bids increased 18 to 19 cents to 12.37-12.40, with basis up 1 to 2 cents ranging from -18X to -15X. New crop wheat bids for July 2012 delivery were down 18 to 21 cents ranging from 6.30-6.33, with basis mixed ranging from -18N to -15N. At the Illinois River terminals north of Peoria, cash corn bids were steady to 2 cents lower at 6.43-6.47, with basis mixed ranging from +7H to +11H. Cash soybean bids were up 38 to 40 cents at 12.63-12.65, with basis 7 to 9 cents higher at +5H to +7H. New crop corn bids for October delivery ended 2 to 3 cents higher at 5.41-5.45, with basis 2 to 3 cents stronger ranging from -27Z to -23Z.
